COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT AND INVOLVEMENT

Are you involved in:

- community and social planning
- community and/or cultural development
- management and policy development
- land use or environmental planning
- community action or activities
- any work in which the public may want to have a say?

The Workshop

This workshop will help you develop effective approaches to engaging and involving communities in decision making and community activity.

You will explore how to

- work with 'community spirit';
- respond to, rather than direct, community activity;
- design effective community visioning and involvement strategies;
- build partnerships with community stakeholders;
- use creativity as part of the process;
- question effectively;
- build effective relationships;
- resolve particular dilemmas or challenges from your own experience.

These concepts will be related directly to the work (paid or un-paid) that you do in, with or for communities. It will encourage community involvement that builds energy and trust, rather than diminishing them.

If you have your own 'real life examples' of challenges in community involvement, these can be explored through the day.

The Trainer

Tim Muirhead, of the CSD Network, has over 20 years experience as a trainer, advisor and practitioner in community involvement as well as community development and social and community planning. He now works, on a consultancy basis, with all spheres of government, non-government agencies and community groups. (See www.peoplehelp.com.au/csd)

Tim is the author of "Weaving Tapestries: a handbook for building communities" - produced by the Local Government Community Services Association.
